Rationale and key rating drivers

Ratings assigned to bank facilities of Annora Pharma Private Limited (APPL) consider the strong parentage of and demonstrated support from Hetero Labs Limited (HLL) and experienced promoters in the same line of business. Ratings also draw strength from the continuously improving financial performance between FY20 and H1FY24, strong product portfolio across multiple therapeutic segments, and the launch of new molecules. It also factors increased abbreviated new drug application (ANDA) filing, the company's strategic importance to the parent, and the industry's favourable demand-supply scenario.

However, ratings are offset with the company's limited operational track record, geographical and customer concentration risks, inherent regulatory exposure risk with the pharmaceutical industry, intense competition, and the resultant pricing pressure in the export market.

Rating sensitivities: Factors likely to lead to rating actions

Positive factors

- Improving scale of operations by about 10-15% while maintaining a consistent profit before interest, lease rentals, depreciation, and taxation (PBILDT) margin above 18%.
- Filing ANDAs consistently and launching new molecules.
- Improving geographical and customer diversifications.

Negative factors

- Weakening of linkages with or lack of adequate support from the parent or credit profile of the parent declining.
- Further debt-funded capex, potentially impacting liquidity and capital structure.

Analytical approach

Standalone, factoring linkages with the parent, HLL. HLL wholly owns APPL and has extended shortfall undertaking for the latter's facilities.

Outlook: Stable

The stable outlook reflects CARE Ratings Limited's (CARE Ratings') expectations that APPL will improve its operational performance year-on-year and continue to receive need-based support from HLL.

Detailed description of the key rating drivers

Key strengths

Part of the Hetero group, a reputed player in the pharma business

HLL, the flagship company of the Hetero group, wholly owns APPL. Hetero, among the major pharmaceutical groups in India, develops and manufactures active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs), intermediate chemicals, and finished dosages. The group's portfolio spans more than 900 drugs across therapeutic segments. With a presence in over 126 countries, the Hetero group has more than 36 manufacturing units for pharmaceuticals products.

Dr B Parthasaradhi Reddy established the Hetero group in 1993. Dr Reddy has more than three decades of experience in the Indian pharmaceutical industry.

¹Complete definition of the ratings assigned are available at www.careedge.in and other CARE Ratings Ltd.'s publications

Over the years, the group has been growing, adding numerous API products to its portfolio. It forayed into the formulations segment in 2006, and since, has been focusing on finished dosages, having added about 500 products to its portfolio. Promoters look after the company's overall management and are supported by a professional management team with wide industry experience.

Strong product portfolio across multiple therapeutic segments

APPL has a strong product portfolio comprising more than 30 products. The revenue in FY23 has been diversified as against the product concentration in FY21 and FY22. DLT (anti-retroviral) and levetiracetam (epilepsy) drugs contributed about 40% together to total revenue in FY23 and H1FY24 as against 78% and 63%, respectively, in FY21 and FY22. With improved diversification, contribution from these two products reduced to about 40%, with other drugs contributing significantly.

APPL has a presence across therapeutic segments, with segments such as anti-epileptic, anti-retroviral, HIV, anti-hypertensive, and anti-depressant contributing most. Revenue from the top five therapeutic segments in FY23 stood at 77.20% as against 91.45% in FY22.

Incremental filing of ANDAs

APPL has a United States Food and Drug Administration (USFDA)-approved manufacturing plant. The company has been continuously filing ANDAs, having filed a total of 75 ANDAs to date, of which 40 have received approvals and 35 are under review. APPL will reportedly file about 10-12 ANDAs each year, going forward.

Growing scale of operations, improving revenue and margins

APPL commenced operations in FY20. The total operating income (TOI) has grown by an average 25% between FY22 and H1FY24, and is expected to follow a similar trajectory in FY24. Operating revenue has increased from ₹700.55 crore in FY22 to ₹921.73 crore in FY23, growing by 31%. Revenue in H1FY24 was reported at ₹653.24 crore as against ₹406.54 crore in H1FY23. CARE Ratings expects APPL to achieve revenue in the range of ₹1,100-1,200 crore in FY24, given the already-achieved revenue in H1FY24 and the company's augmented capacities and product approvals.

Revenue increase is on the back of rising volumes, process efficiency, changed products, and price mix. On the margins front, APPL has improved by 575 bps in FY23. In FY22, it recorded PBILDT and profit-after-tax (PAT) margins of about 11.43% and 3.53%, respectively, further improving to 17.18% and 8.64%, respectively, in FY23 on the back of operational efficiency and increasing scale of operations. In H1FY24, APPL recorded operating margin of 20.27% and PAT margin of 11.85%.

Low net worth due to loss in initial years, although improving year-on-year

Incorporated in November 2015, APPL commenced commercial operations in FY20. The company had no revenue booked before FY20, due to which it faced losses, leading to negative net worth. However, it reported profits FY21 onwards, this being the first full year of operations. From a negative net worth of ₹46.54 crore as on March 31, 2022, the net worth increased to ₹47.73 crore as on March 31, 2023.

Notably, the parent, HLL, has infused ₹628.63 crore up to March 31, 2023, in the form of optionally convertible preference shares (OCPS) and unsecured loans. While CARE Ratings has considered the OCPS as debt for analytical purpose, the management is of the opinion that it will be converted to equity at the time of redeeming. In FY23, APPL converted ₹15.00 crore of OCPS into equity.

Key weaknesses

Exposure to group companies in revenue terms

APPL manufactures generic finished dosages for therapeutic segments. As a subsidiary of HLL, with operational and managerial support, APPL derives majority of its revenue by selling its products to group companies. In FY23, the company derived 90.23% (PY: 93.76%) of its revenue by selling products to HLL and Camber Pharmaceuticals Inc (CPI; subsidiary of HLL). Group entities are major contributors to revenue, exposing APPL to customer concentration risk. However, CPI, in turn, sells to wholesale distributors in the US. On a consolidated basis, HLL has revenue exposure of about 25% in the US. This apart, the consolidated revenue of the Hetero group is well diversified, given it exports to more than 140 countries and HLL's established track record of more than three decades. Thus, the revenue concentration risk is mitigated to an extent.

Regulatory risk

Having a global presence and given the product usage, application and consequent impacts, APPL is required to comply with laws, rules and regulations, and operate under strict regulatory environments. Infringement in law or adverse changes in import-export policies or environmental or regulatory policies in regions where APPL operates can impact its operations. The USFDA inspection took place in August 2023, with no observations made.

Liquidity: Adequate

Liquidity is marked by strong accruals against negligible repayment obligations. In FY23, APPL had gross cash accruals (GCA) of ₹127.31 crore. CARE Ratings expects the company to generate GCA of about ₹170.00 crore and ₹200.00 crore in FY24 and FY25, respectively, with no debt repayment obligations. For the availed term loan of ₹135.00 crore, debt repayment obligations of ₹27.00 crore commence in FY26 (June 2025), post a moratorium period of 18 months.

The company's overall gearing stood at 17.05x, given that APPL's operations were supported by HLL in the past by infusing unsecured loans and OCPS of ₹628.63 crore in total debt (TD) of ₹814.24 crore. Considering healthy cash accruals, CARE Ratings expects APPL to comfortably meet its debt obligations.
